Agenda item 12

Improving global road safety

Resolution adopted by the General Assembly on 10 March 2026

without reference to a Main Committee ([A/80/L.46)]

80/247. Scope, modalities, format and organization of the high-level meeting on improving global road safety

The General Assembly,

Recognizing that, through the adoption of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development¹ and its Sustainable Development Goals in September 2015, Heads of State and Government made a bold commitment to halve the number of global deaths and injuries from road traffic crashes and to provide access to safe, affordable, accessible and sustainable transport systems for all, improving road safety,

Recalling its resolution 76/294 of 30 June 2022, entitled “Political declaration of the high-level meeting on improving global road safety”, in which it decided to convene a high-level meeting in 2026 on a comprehensive review of the progress achieved in improving global road safety,

Expressing deep concern that the number of road traffic crashes remains unacceptably high, particularly in developing countries, and that crashes represent a leading cause of death and injury around the world, killing more than 1.19 million people and injuring as many as 50 million people a year, with 92 per cent of those casualties occurring in low- and middle-income countries, and in this regard reaffirming the continued urgency of addressing road traffic deaths and injuries as a major public health and development challenge,

Recognizing that road safety contributes to the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals, including target 3.6 to halve the number of global deaths and injuries from road traffic accidents,

Taking note of the findings of the Global Status Report on Road Safety 2023, which demonstrate both progress and persistent gaps in achieving reductions in road traffic fatalities, including that a number of countries have already achieved significant declines, showing that ambitious targets are attainable,

Taking note also of the Fourth Global Ministerial Conference on Road Safety, held in Marrakech, Morocco, from 18 to 20 February 2025, and its outcomes, including the endorsement of the Marrakech Declaration and renewed national commitments to accelerate action towards achieving the goal of halving global road deaths and injuries by 2030, and acknowledging the importance of the Moscow Declaration adopted at the first Global Ministerial Conference on Road Safety in 2009,² the Brasilia Declaration adopted at the second Global High-level Conference on Road Safety in 2015 and the Stockholm Declaration adopted at the third Global Ministerial Conference on Road Safety in 2020,

Expressing concern that road safety remains severely underfunded through both public and private financing, and that, despite the existence of a national strategy for road safety in a majority of Member States, most of these are unfunded and are not implemented,
